VENTURA SIGHTED MANNING ALONE

REVENUE CUTTER HAD NOT FOUND DISABLED SCHOONER—OCEANIC BOAT 7 DAYS RUN.

The O. S. S. Ventura, Captain Hayward, arriving from San Francisco about 10 o'clock this morning, sighted the United States Revenue Cutter Manning, Capt. Joyner, at 1:30 o'clock this morning about 65 miles out, the cutter cruising under a slow bell. It was not known aboard the Ventura that the Manning was out searching for the little island schooner Luka and her Captain Moki and seven men, reported disabled and 82 miles out at noon of Wednesday last by the S. S. Coptic which arrived here in the evening of that day. The Manning was alone when sighted by the Ventura. There was no sign of a tow. She was apparently on the lookout for something.

The Ventura was none too quick coming down, occupying 7 days and 49 minutes from San Francisco, delayed by a contribution of trouble from the fireman and the elements. She takes aboard 900 tons of coal here and proceeds on the voyage to Pago Pago, Auckland and Sydney at midnight. She brought 91 passengers for Honolulu and carries 64 through to the Colonies. There are 45 tons of freight (no potatoes) for Honolulu and 2,000 for the south. She sailed from San Francisco last Saturday, January 19, at 5:15 a. m.

PALOLO VALLEY FULL OF SMOKE

VOLCANIC HAZE HUGS THE DALE AND LOOKS LIKE RAIN SQUALL IN DISTANCE.

For several days a stubborn smoke cloud has hung in Palolo Valley. The volcanic smoke from the island of Hawaii has been drifting slowly into the valley and the great extinct crater of Palolo is full of it. From the Waiakae road the appearance of the heavy haze is like a rain squall. Manoa valley has also caught and held considerable smoke.

The volcanic haze on this island is most noticeable at the southern end. The haze over the city of Honolulu appears much more substantial as viewed from the hills than it does to the individual in the city streets.

CASES WERE PUT OFF.

When D. L. Withington and J. W. Cathcart arrived in Washington they found that the Hawaiian cases had gone over until March 18. Withington immediately started for home but Cathcart stopped to try and get the court to change the date of the case he is on. It is said that if Withington had stopped with Cathcart, the court would have probably made the change on account of the distance the attorneys had traveled.
